

"We have to have a dump"

At the close of Saturday's session of the town meeting the tax rate of Wilmington was down to $62.20, $1 less than had been predicted by the finance committee.

The drop can be attributed to two things - the Town refused to vote for a new dump, and the school committee of Shawsheen Tech, (Frank McLean) offered a reduction of $52,894. The decrease came in spite of several increases voted by the town meeting, most notable of which was the police salaries account.

The town meeting refused to go along, several times, particularly with attempts to sabotage the school committee budget. The refusal was not that the budget was approved, but rather that the town meeting recognized the futility of the situation.

Town employees had their pay raised 13% by the town meeting, while their supervisors, the foreman, got no pay raise.

Anthony Leverone, of St. Paul Street, the very first thing attempted to move the school budget up to first place in the debate. Mr. Leverone was rebuffed by a silence of the voters.

Mr. Leverone also attempted, during the course of the meeting, to get a discussion going on the water department budget. In all he brought up questions on various accounts to a total of 10 or 12 occasions.

Many of the items discussed during the afternoon were non-controversial. There were those who questioned the need of a new 1000 gallon per minute pumper for the fire department, but there was no controversy in the vote after the town meeting was told the machine to be replaced was made in 1955.

The big discussion was the police salaries. It lasted one hour and 18 minutes. Several standing votes were taken. The town voted for an additional sergeant, and then refused to vote for another patrolman, after much discussion about the Civil Service and whether it was responsible for a vacancy.

In the health and sanitation department the town meeting supported the town manager, who proposed an increase to prevent the loss of one nurse. Ernie Romano, public health officer described the nursing program as being in jeopardy, and Selectman

The Hathaway Acres Friday morning syndrome

Some of the residents of Hathaway Acres in Wilmington have been in a mild state of shock, for the past few weeks - a case of shock which could be called the Friday Morning Syndrome.

There was a robbery on January 31, which was a Friday. Ever since there are people who think another robbery is being conducted, always on a Friday morning.

Last Friday, for instance, there were two calls to the police department, one for a robbery said to be in progress on Sheridan Road, and then a little later for another on Hathaway Road. The police checked out both calls.

One Hathaway Acres resident, believing that local boys were involved, is said to have driven around Hathaway Acres several times, last Friday, looking for the crime he believed was being committed. Several persons have told the Town Crier about that drive-around.

But there was a crime, in Hathaway Acres, on a Friday, the last day of January. A TV set, jewelry, silver, etc. were taken from a home in broad daylight, on a Friday morning. There was a man, a girl, and a Husky dog. They made several trips between car and house, and were observed by neighbors. The car had New Hampshire plates.

Wilmington police now have identified those persons, and they have been arrested. The car now has Massachusetts plates, and the two persons are residents of Allston.

The couple was arrested a few days ago by the Weston police, on information furnished by the Wilmington police, on or about February 17. Several hundreds of dollars in value has been recovered, loot stolen from the Hathaway Road robbery, and thousands of dollars in value in loot stolen in other robberies. Included in the recovered loot were several revolvers.

The couple is now scheduled for trial in Woburn Court.

The Wilmington police are thankful for the telephone calls that have been received. In discussing the case Sgt. George Shepard said "keep your eyes open, seven days a week!"

Gillis and the editor of the Town Crier supported the town manager's proposal. The finance committee then approved.

An attempt to have a permanent plumber, in the maintenance of public buildings department lost. The meeting was told that to hire an outside plumber could cost $9 to $15 an hour, and to employ one in the town's building department would cost $6 an hour. Selectman Miceli said the town would save a lot of money, but the proposal was voted down 231 to 188.

The recreation budget was another hot item. Dick Duggan of the finance committee described it as "a real good example of increases we should and can control."

Jack Nealon of the school committee, in presenting his budget described as an 8.68% increase. The Wilmington teachers salary agreement, he said, was still being discussed.

Selectman Danny Gillis said that there would be a limiting power, if the teacher's association knew of such a power there would not be such an increase in salaries, all the time. Mr. Gillis said he was in favor of the town meeting having power by a four-fifths vote.

Mike Buczynski attempted to lay the budget "on the table," but when the moderator explained that

Single Parent Group, Family counseling

A single parent group is being offered by the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, Inc., to residents of the town who are separated, divorced, or widowed.

With their multiple roles of parent, homemaker, handyman, wage-earner and single person, single parents experience much stress in trying to meet the needs of their families as well as their own. Single parents participating in the group need not be in a particular crisis, but may feel they could benefit from the support of sharing their concerns with others in similar situations and exploring alternative ways of coping.

This single parent group is a special project funded by donations from the Rotary, the Congregational Church and the Women's Club.

The group will meet weekly for one and one half hours with a trained leader. The time will be arranged to best meet interested parents' needs. No fee will be assessed. Interested single parents should call 658-9889.

Wilmington Women's Club guest night

On Wednesday evening, March 19, husbands and friends will be guests of the Wilmington Women's Club for a catered pot roast dinner and a one-act version of "Plaza Suite" by the Wilmington Spotlighters.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 at the Methodist Church followed by the report of the nominating committee and the Spotlighters' presentation.

Spotlighter tryouts Saturday

The Wilmington Spotlighters are ready to embark on their next adventure. It will be the musical hit "Mame". Mame is planned to be presented on June 13 and 14.

There have been two tryouts, to date. The coming tryout is probably the final one, before the work sessions start. It will be for all thespians, and hopeful thespians.

The tryouts start at 1 pm Saturday, in the Wilmington Methodist Church.

Does anyone have an old fashioned bean pot?

Lil Woodside, she who won the Good Guy Award a few years ago in Wilmington, and who has been actively pushing the Regional Health Center in Wilmington for some years, has a new activity.

Lil is looking for an old fashioned bean pot - not the quart size, but a large one. In days gone past the lady of the house used such a bean pot for baking beans for Saturday evening - put in a couple of quarts of beans, some water, some molasses and some pork, and then leave in the oven of the old fashioned kitchen stove for a couple of days.

Well, Lil has a use for such a bean pot. It is to go to a lady who has such a stove, and is to be described as 89 and still going strong. The lady wants to bake beans for Saturday night, and perhaps be in a position to give some of those beans to friends or neighbors.

Lil, it can be guessed, is out to win another Good Guy Award.

THANK YOU

To the Voters of Wilmington who supported me at the polls, and to my friends, neighbors and campaign workers who helped to put me in office.

The Coming Debate

The most important item, perhaps, in Saturday's Town Meeting will be those articles intended to promote the distribution of water in North Wilmington, through the industrially zoned area. These articles will be the first debated. The entire appropriation, up to Article 20, is $4500, which is best described as peanuts, as far as the tax rate is concerned.

A part of the area to be served is around Ballardvale Street, which is zoned for industry, but to which the town cannot supply water. The Town Crier calls this the Great Desert, among other things.

There is at present a six inch water main, of dubious quality, and Article 20 asks for a bond, to put in much larger mains. Vote for it.

One of the families on Ballardvale Street, the Parks family, is worried because they have a 1300 foot frontage. They feel (or so this column understands) that the Parks family will be "hit" by "betterments."

The Town Crier does not think so. The family already has town water in their home. How can they be bettered by another main?

Incidentally, that water main that passes their home - it is a six inch main. About a dozen years ago one of Wilmington's wonderful town managers had that main dug up, when Ballardvale Street was being resurfaced, and then buried it again. He could have put in a twelve or fourteen inch main at that time and saved the town some thousands of dollars.

Articles 21 and 22 are almost duplicates of each other. They constitute a new sign bylaw, and a new zoning bylaw, and are modeled after those of the Town of Burlington, which, by and large, are pretty good bylaws.

The Town Crier doesn't have any particular fault to find with these articles. After five years those people who have free standing signs will lose the right to have them any more, under this bylaw. Free standing signs are the kind that can be called billboards, plus the signs one sees in gas stations, etc. - the unattached kind.

The building inspector, one hears, does have one point he wishes to discuss.

Article 23 - The Town Forest. This could be a hot one. The selectmen and interested parties are to meet tonight in the town hall to discuss this, and there may be more agreements, or disagreements.

Originally over 200 acres of land were to be taken. It is now down to 122 and probably will cost the town $169,000, of which up to 75% could be re-imbursable, from state and federal funds. There are almost always some strings attached to such re-imbursment. Find out what they are before you vote.

The land of John Earl Dick, of Bedford, which is southerly of Camp Forty Acres may be the most expensive. Mr. Dick is an attorney, and he recently "land courted" his land. Probably he will be at the meeting.

Northerly of Camp Forty Acres is the "Brooks" lot - a man from Winthrop who bought the land about thirty years ago. Both the Brooks lot and the Dick lot are isolated, in that they have no "frontage" on an accepted street.

Article 25 asks that part of Ballardvale Street be discontinued. This is the part that will go through the town forest, if a town forest is voted - through the part that is almost all owned by the town.

The selectmen don't think it is a good idea to discontinue this road. The Town Crier asks: Why not?

Articles 26, 27 and 28 have to do with "home occupations." The key to the idea of this legislation is that such an occupation must be in a home in which someone is actually living. Remember this.

There are homes in Wilmington in which no one lives, and in which such occupations are being carried on. This, it is said, constitutes a rezoning without being rezoned.

Articles 29 and 30 - they will not be discussed. These are the articles on which the planning board got stuck, a couple of weeks ago in their public hearing.

Article 31 is a good one. This takes control of the streets, which have been finished, and such a thing is beneficial to the people who live on those streets. Article 32, on the other hand, is cancelled. It will not be voted. Article 33, the part that describes Chestnut Street is okay, but not the part that describes Marion Street.

Article 34 is the one in which the town employees are interested. It will increase their pay, in effect, by increasing the town's contribution to insurance policies.

Articles 36 and 37 are Selectman Boylen's articles, and one cannot blame the selectman. There has been, over the years, plenty of reason why such an article should be in the Town Warrant.

The funny thing is that at the present time there is a pretty good building committee.

Article 39 is the gun law in Wilmington. The Town Crier concurs. It will be a good law - but:

How about the Memorial Day parades, etc. in which the veterans organizations salute the dead with volleys from their firing squads? This bylaw would absolutely prohibit such social usage. How about an amendment - that organizations observing historical events, or traditional services by gravesides, using firearms, with blank cartridges, are specifically exempted from this bylaw.

The gravel articles - 41 and 42. These are not good articles, even if well intentioned. They will hurt Wilmington, and this column cannot see where they will do any good.

Article 42, for instance, requires a gravel operation to be carried on continuously. That's a stiff order, and the owner of a small pit, who wants everything to be in good order, will have a problem just to obey that law.

Consider, too the Cronin Brothers. They have a large operation. They import gravel into Wilmington. They wash that gravel, and they sell it. No one has ever had a complaint about that firm - they are gentlemen all the way.

This proposal would probably hurt such a firm in a manner that cannot be foreseen, but it could cause people to lose their jobs, and it could cause a loss of taxes for Wilmington from what is a very clean operation.

And this column is unable to see what good will be done.

Yes, there are instances in which someone starts moving gravel around. The town manager, or the planning board, or some other official quickly notes these, and they are stopped.

Making a new bylaw won't help the situation.

SERGEANT CASEY, UNITED STATES MARINES. Wilmington's Joe Casey, vice chairman of the Finance Committee, who presided over that committee in last Saturday's Town Meeting recently completed two weeks of active duty with the United States Marines, in Maryland. During that time he received a special award, for his skill and diligence.

Fred Cain does not want registrar's post

Representative Fred Cain, last week in the state house requested that his name be removed from a list of possible candidates for the post of Registrar of Motor Vehicles in Massachusetts.

Mr. Cain confirmed this week to the Town Crier that he had requested his name be removed. There are about 20 names on the list, he said, for the job that pays about $22,000 a year. He felt he would be of more service to his home town by not changing to the registrar's post.

Cain also told the Town Crier that he had received a letter from outgoing DPW Commissioner, Bruce Campbell, expressing thanks for the co-operation Cain had shown, as a legislator, to the DPW. The letter said in part:

"In my 18 years with the Massachusetts Safety Council I also had constant dealings with the Legislature. I can honestly say, in the combined DPW and Safety Council period, I have never met a legislator who more diligently or more effectively served the people of his district. Furthermore, you actually served the entire state in the firm but fair manner in which you handled the many programs of the DPW through your membership on the House Ways & Means Committee."

We are inviting and encouraging residents of Wilmington to express their opinions on what they believe Wilmington's needs to be. Public hearings are scheduled for March 17, at the Town House (Mildred Rogers School) at 7:30 p.m. and March 19, at the Woburn Street School Library at 7:30 p.m.

Woburn Street PAC to host committee

In order to promote community awareness of issues and problems being dealt with by the school committee, a series of meetings will be held in several of the schools in town.

At each of these meetings the parents of each school will be given an opportunity to discuss with the school committee issues relevant to them.

Correction Campfire service

The Ecumenical Service for the Campfire girls of Wilmington will begin at 10:45 a.m. on Sunday, March 16 at the First Baptist Church, not at 11 a.m. as was previously reported.

Baby sitting at town meeting

Again this week, baby sitting services will be provided by Senior Girl Scouts of Troop 112 for parents who wish to attend Saturday's session of the annual town meeting in Wilmington.

Minimum age of children has been set at one year.

Lowell and Somerville cops were waiting

Two men, one 28 years old from Cambridge and the other 22 years old from Somerville, were arrested by Sgt. Jay Palmer of the Wilmington Police in the early hours of last Thursday morning, after a trail of burglaries that started in Lowell and ended in Wilmington.

It was quite a tale, and the story doesn't end with the arraignment in Woburn Court, for the Somerville Police and the Lowell Police had a few more words to say.

The two men started in Lowell, in a 1966 Chevy. Sometime after midnight they broke into the White Hen, a small grocery store near Shedd Park, stole a quantity of change (about $60) a dollar bill which could be identified, a key to the strong box, and a large quantity of food stamps.

The next stop was at the Tewksbury Hardware store. They stole a double bladed ax, several sledge hammers, two large pinch bars and other items.

Their third stop was at the Tulsa station in Wilmington, near the railroad crossing. They used the pinch bars to break into the station and into the safe. The two men didn't seem to find much loot, but they did steal a check writer.

Sergeant Jay Palmer of the Wilmington police, cruising in an unmarked cruiser, was near the Weinberg store, and he noted them. He gave chase.

He caught up to the Chevy near the McNamara tire store, and meanwhile other police cruisers, in response to a call, were closing in. Palmer forced the car to the side of the road.

In the trunk of the car the police found the loot from the Tewksbury Hardware store - pinch bars, sledge hammers and ax. There was also the check writer from the Tulsa station.

In the glove compartment was the loot from the White Hen, change, the dollar bill, and the food stamps.

Also in the glove compartment was a quantity of marijuana.

The operator of the car had a forged license, and he gave a false name to Sgt. Palmer. He was carrying two weapons, one a billy club, and the other a blackjack.

A number of charges were made, in Woburn Court, next morning, where the men were arraigned. Robbery, conspiracy, damages to three buildings. The bail was set at $5000. The men paid the bail and were released.

They stepped out of court - temporarily free men.

There, waiting for them, were policemen from Lowell, who promptly re-arrested the two men on a variety of similar charges.

And, waiting behind the Lowell Police were policemen from Somerville. They too had warrants for the arrest of the two men, on charges similar to those of Wilmington and Lowell.

Jay, it seems, caught a couple of popular characters.

Cops nab elusive youths

It wasn't the fastest chase ever, but it was long.

Wilmington police Tuesday night were led on a chase through Wilmington, Billerica and Burlington by two youths in a Toyota, allegedly stolen. It was a case of a little car driving circles around the big cruisers.

The car was first observed near Silver Lake by Officer Jim Rooney, who had a complaint on it "cruising" the area. He pulled the car over, and after he was out of the cruiser, the car sped off toward Tewksbury.

Soon, the car took an abrupt left turn, heading toward South Street, with Rooney in pursuit.

Meanwhile, the chase had been taken up by Sgt. Jay Palmer, and Officers James Burke and Robert Spencer. With the car on Lake Street, Billerica police were notified.

When the Toyota emerged from Hopkins Street onto Cook Street in Billerica, there was a Billerica cruiser across the road, with the officer out of the car.

The Toyota managed to squeeze past the roadblock, but the Wilmington cruisers, much wider than the small foreign car, were blocked. They had to wait for the Billerica officer to get back in the car and move it.

The chase continued out to Route 3A and then south into Burlington, and somewhere along the way, three police cars were involved in accidents.

The final turn of events occurred in the parking lot of Burlington High School, where the Toyota rolled over. The occupants were taken into custody and charged with a string of motor vehicle charges, in addition to assault with a dangerous weapon, the weapon being the car. After booking in Burlington, the youths were turned over to the Wilmington Police.

A "miniature disaster" at General Electric

A "miniature disaster" occurred sometime the last day of February, at the General Electric plant on Fordham Road in Wilmington. The entire plant was flooded with six inches of water, after a 10 inch water main broke. Walls, both outside bearing walls and inside partition walls, were lifted six inches, and floors too.

Yet the damage was not irreparable, and all the employees were able to start their regular work on Monday morning without loss of time. There will have to be repairs, but none of the so-called "bearing walls" were injured by the experience. Good construction practices seem to have paid off.

The Wilmington Water Department, called in because of the accident, worked late into the night, and replaced the broken main. Leo Barbo, one of the owners of the building, had strong praise for the water department employees.

What seems to have happened:

A young man in a car knocked down a utility pole, that evening, on Concord Street, in North Reading, probably half a mile away. The resulting power loss was felt over quite an area, and in the General Electric building it is believed to have shut off the pumps for fresh water.

The Reading Municipal Light repair crew promptly repaired the break, and replaced the pole, and power was again being furnished. Then something happened - pumps working in the wrong way or something, for the water pipe, under the foundation wall exploded, from a heavy surge.

In addition to the damage to the walls there was six inches of water over the floor where employees work. About fifty emergency workmen were sent in, by the firm of Conté & Donahue, contractors, and the Plant Manager, Alan Rosenberg and Controllor, Tom King, were two men who were at the plant to the finish.

A SURGE OF WATER: Broke the ten inch water main, and lifted up the floors inside the GE building, but the foundation and outside walls held.

CAR CORNER

by Bob Bagnulo and Joe Casey

What causes vapor locks? These are generally created by excessive heat which vaporizes the fuel in the pump or lines.

When the car is caught in heavy traffic on a hot day, vapor locks often occur. In normal driving, the gas tank is cooled by air and fuel passing rapidly. In heavy traffic the hot engine can cause slow-moving fuel to boil.

If fuel lines are too close to the exhaust, the same thing will happen.

Whatever the cause, if you need automotive service, see WILMINGTON FORD, 275 Main St., Rt. 38, Wilmington, 658-6800 first. We have one of the area's most modern and complete service and parts departments. We make appointments to help you properly schedule your car's service and attempt to insure same day service whenever possible. Open: sales, 9-10 Mon-Fri; 8-6 Sat; service, 7:30-9 Mon-Fri; 7:30-5 Sat.

Helpful hint

Make sure that your engine is properly tuned - this is a preventive step for overheating the vapor locks.

The Evening Clinic at St. Joseph's Hospital has been moved to the recently opened facility, the Paul A. Gagnon Community Health Center and will continue to be held on Wednesday evenings in the Outpatient area of that building.

Primarily designed for adult and adolescent patients who have not been able to obtain the services of a private physician, the clinic also services working persons who may not be able to leave work during the day to see a doctor.

Staffed by a doctor, nurse, social worker, nursing assistant and secretary the clinic services non-emergency medical problems such as sore throats, flu, recurring headaches, dressing changes or suture removals.

Additionally, the clinic staff makes referrals to various community service organizations including the Visiting Nurse Assn. and the Family Service Agency of Greater Lowell.

Charges for services rendered at the evening clinic are adjustable depending on the nature of the medical problem and the care rendered.

Tewksbury engineer honored by society

Steven J. Medlar, P.E., of 37 Kearsage St., Tewksbury, has been named "Young Engineer of the Year" by the Massachusetts Society of Professional Engineers.

This award is presented annually to an engineer who has demonstrated exceptional character, outstanding technical ability and service to the profession, and dedication of his knowledge toward the betterment of human welfare.

Medlar is employed by Whitman & Howard, Inc., Engineers and Architects of Boston, where he presently serves as an associate, assistant head of the Water Department, and project engineer.

He received a B.S. in Civil Engineering from the University of Massachusetts and an M.S. in Civil Engineering from Tufts University.

Since joining Whitman & Howard, Inc., in 1962, Medlar has been responsible for several water works projects including the design, engineering, and construction supervision of wells, water pumping stations, pipelines, reservoirs, dams, and water treatment plants.

During his professional career, he has pioneered the development of a number of water treatment techniques, including the double-filtration process, which has been recognized in recent national discussion about the safety of drinking water as the most effective and economical method available for removing toxics and possible cancer-causing chemicals from municipal water supplies.

Medlar engineered the Manchester, N.H., water treatment plant, the first such facility designed specifically for the double filtration concept, which recently received an engineering excellence award from the Consulting Engineers' council of New England.

He is a registered professional engineer in all the New England states and New York, and is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Water Resources Association, American Water Works Association, New England Water Works Association, Plymouth County Water Works Association, and Sigma Xi (Honorary Research Society).

Medlar serves on committees of the American and New England
Water Works Association (NEWWA) and as an instructor at the association's school for treat-

Choate hospital to expand emergency facilities

Choate Hospital officials have announced the signing of a contract with a local construction company to more than double the size of the Hospital's emergency room area. On the contract, Choate President Guy M. Palage commented, "Over the last 10 years, demand for emergency services at Choate has increased dramatically. In 1963, when the existing emergency room was built, emergency visits totaled 3,000.
Last year, using the same facilities, we treated 22,000."

Since the new construction involves building onto the existing emergency room, the Hospital's emergency services will be moved to an area on the ground floor at the other end of the building. The relocation, which is not expected to interfere with the Hospital's emergency services, will take place shortly after midnight, March 5, with the actual construction beginning on Monday, March 10.

This new addition, recently approved by the Health Department, will provide separate ambulance and walk-in entrances, a better reception area, more adequate waiting space, improved visitor control, and additional space in the Emergency Room itself.

Access to the temporary emergency service will be through the first hospital entrance on the right as one approaches the hospital coming up the hill from Pleasant Street. New directional signs will be posted at the appropriate entrance to the Hospital.

The cubs and their families also enjoyed a demonstration of some of the smaller equipment used by the Wilmington Fire Department.

School principal praises police administrators

Richard E. Griffin, principal of Tewksbury Junior High School, has praised superior officers and several inspectors in the Tewksbury Police Department in a letter to Richard A. Adams Sr., chairman of selectmen.

In the same letter, Griffin suggested the majority of selectmen were trying to undermine the efforts of police administrators to inspire first rate performance from patrolmen. He charged police administrators would provide better leadership if they weren't subject to "witch hunts and interference."

Griffin's letter follows:
Dear Mr. Adams:

"The present castigation of administrative personnel has led me to write this letter. It appears that the majority of the board of selectmen wish to erode the efforts of fine police personnel to bring top flight performance from their subordinates. Persistent, unreported drinking and vandalism on the grounds of the junior high school is a case in point. Whether through fear or a lackadaisical attitude toward their responsibility, some officers on weekend duty continuously fail to report such damage or break up groups of young people on school grounds despite my requests and those of Lieutenant Jop. When these officers are given criticism of these failings it is construed as harassment, then obviously the board of selectmen condone such behavior on the part of the criticized officers. In public criticism of the superiors of the department, such as Chief Sullivan, Lt. Jop, Sgt. Bradanick and Sgt. Johnson, the majority of the board seem to wish this erosion to magnify and continue.

"These officers named above have shown me on many occasions the ability to deal with policy problems in an intelligent way with integrity and thorough follow-through. If others in the department modeled themselves on this type of police work, the efforts of the department would be enhanced.

"The efforts of those mentioned above together with Inspectors Landers, Jop and Jamieson have led to the resolution of many juvenile problems in this community ranging from housebreaks to drug sales to restitution for vandalism. I am pleased with their concerted efforts to have young people 'straighten out' and grow in a safe environment.

"A department allowed to function without 'witch hunts' and interference would probably have the type of leadership which all selectmen and members of the community desire to have. I wish that you, as chairman, would convey these personal thoughts to other members of the board. Internal problems are best solved internally."

Kendall Road to be rebuilt

Plans for reconstructing Kendall Road to the Andover town line will be in the hands of the road commissioners within weeks, according to Chairman Richard Trueba. The work will be done with state funds.

Included in the plans are all engineering requirements such as grades, trees to be removed and drainage. Where the road varies in width from 15 to 18 feet now, it will be 20 feet wide once the work is completed.

Trueba says, "We intend to keep the road as countrified as much as possible, and have no plans to remove any more trees than we have to."

League to discuss juvenile justice

Justice for juveniles will come under scrutiny by the League of Women Voters of Wilmington in two study units to be held March 18 and 19.

League members will be considering the integration of probate and juvenile court functions, and the expansion of court services to serve juveniles.

Other subjects will be whether the juvenile whose offense would not be against the law if he were not a juvenile (e.g. stubborn child, runaway) should be handled by the court system. The league will also discuss whether juveniles should have the same rights as adults in courts.

This is the fourth year of the league's study on the administration of justice.

The March 18 unit will be at the home of Dodie Marshall, 255 Lowell St., and the March 19 unit will be at the home of Pat Gagnon, 200 Middlesex Ave.

Interested guests are welcome. For information, call 658-4821.

New books at Wilmington Public Library

Family Affairs by John L'Heureux consists of ten short stories ranging from the psychologically unnerving to the wildly humorous. The author has a delightful sense of the unexpected which always makes him interesting.

Behind the Door by Giorgio Bassani deals with three boys in a high school class, their conflicts, ambitions and frustrations. Bassani delineates the relations of the boys to each other leading to a crucial experience of betrayal that shatters their sense of security and trust.

Dune by Frank Herbert is an award winning science-fiction tale which takes place in a barren desert where water is worth its weight in platinum. This tale of the future is meticulously worked out, marvelously detailed, frightening, exciting, baffling, challenging and will never let the reader go.

Female Friends by Fay Weldon illuminates a whole generation of women old enough to remember World War Two, but young enough still to be confronting major decisions about their lives. It treats three women, all just over forty, all struggling through the problems of living in a male-dominated world.

The Connoisseur by Evan Connell is a novel about a widower in his fifties who suddenly becomes consumed by the desire to collect art works. Wandering into a curio shop he sees a beautiful figurine which he must have. This begins the story which carries a strange kind of suspense.

BEACHWEAR IN MARCH: Susan Valletta modeled this multi-colored swim suit from the Children's Shop in Reading last Wednesday night in the annual fashion show at the Woburn Street School in Wilmington. She is a six-year-old first grade student, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valletta of Lexington Street.

Area residents on dean's list at Westfield State

200th birthday of Minutemen

Wilmington's Minutemen, who marched and fought on April 19, 1775 celebrated last Sunday, the 200th anniversary of the formation of their company. The celebration was held in the Minutemen's headquarters - The Wilmington Company of the Second Middlesex Regiment of Foot, on Andover Street. Three of Wilmington's selectmen took part in the ceremonies, Chairman Jim Miceli, Jim Banda and George Boylen.

The original company of Minutemen was formed on March 9, 1775. On March the sixth the town, assembled in the meeting house, voted to comply with the resolve of the Provincial Congress, on October 26, 1774, which set in line the formation of minutemen companies, composed of one quarter of the men in the local militia.

Wilmington had two companies of militia, and a third company was probably of Woburn, but was captained by Captain Timothy Walker of Shawsheen Avenue.

There were 24 men to be enlisted as minutemen, according to the town vote.

The enlistment was on March 9, 1775, a Wednesday. Cadwallader Ford Jr., town clerk of Wilmington, was elected captain. It can be remarked of Capt. Ford (or Town Clerk Ford) that his remarks were not voluminous. As town clerk he recorded that the town had voted to enlist 24 men, and later that it had authorized the purchase of arms for such minutemen as are unable to purchase them (this on March 20). He made no mention of names, or of officers.

As captain of the Wilmington Company, Ford filed the necessary papers with the Province of Massachusetts Bay - "rebel" government in Concord, and those are to be seen in the archives of the State, in the State House, today. It is the only way to authenticate the names of the 24 men who were enlisted on March 9, 1775.

SELECTMAN BOYLEN: Presents to Capt. David Hill the gorget, which is used to designate office. A gorget was a metal protector, for the throat, to prevent wounds from knife or bayonette.

PRIVATE ROBERT BUTTERS: Casts his ballot, Sunday, in the Minuteman election, as selectmen of Wilmington preside. One of the original Minutemen of Wilmington was Private William Butters Jr., who was probably a great grand uncle to Private Robert Butters.

Dorothy Boyden wed

On Saturday, November 16, at 1:30 pm, Dorothy Gale Boyden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Boyden, 106 Nichols St., Wilmington and Steven Earl Kennedy, of Columbus, Ohio, were united in marriage by the Rev. Daniel Cody, Pastor of the Most Holy Redeemer Church in Jacksonville, Florida.

The bride was radiant in an empire waist gown of Irish linen and French lace, and carried a single white rose.

Miss Clara Boyden, of Martha's Vineyard, served as maid-of-honor. She wore a pale pink linen gown with embroidered flowers, and carried a single pink rose. Clara made her sister's wedding gown and veil, as well as her own maid-of-honor gown. Miss Dorothy McConoloy, a close friend of the bride of Sebring, Florida, was the bridesmaid, and wore a pale green crepe gown with an overlay of sheer white nylon. She carried a single yellow rose.

Present for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Boyden of Nichols Street; Mrs. Delora Farish, mother of the groom, of Columbus; and Mrs. Nellie Limey, grandmother of the groom of London, Ohio.

The mother of the bride chose a peach colored gown and had a corsage of talisman roses. The mother of the groom was attired in fucia and wore a corsage of pink roses. The grandmother of the groom wore a turquoise colored gown adorned with a corsage of yellow roses.

Michael Klaumenger, of Jacksonville a close friend of the groom, served with best man while ushering duties were in charge of Henry Riley, also of Jacksonville and a close friend of the groom.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are now residing in Jacksonville.

Pack 136 Pinewood derby

The monthly pack meeting of Cubscout Pack 136 was held recently at American Legion Hall, Wilmington. The highlight of the evening was an exciting Pinewood Derby race. All the cubs had worked very hard at making their model race cars from the official kits, and they all deserve praise for the time and effort they expended.

The race was well organized and adult leaders who were in charge included Cubmaster David Fillion, Assistant Cubmaster Hal Murray, Committee Chairman Joe Francis, Webelos leader Ed Barlow, Assistant Webelos leader Dick Yurek and pack committeemen. They did a fine job of seeing that all the cars were registered and weighed in properly, and that the various heats of the race were conducted fairly and orderly.

The winners of each den who went on to the finals included: Den One, Steven Schmitt; Den Two, Mark McNeil; Den Three, Jimmy Wallace; Den Four, Paul Crowley; Den 5, Steven Delaney, and Webelos, Tom Fillio.

Emerging as final pack champions were: Cubscout Grand Champion, Paul Crowley; second place, Mark McNeil; third place, Jimmy Wallace; Webelos grand champion, Tom Fillio and second place, Brian McCue.

Webelos Tom Fillio also won the award for "most original," and the "best looking" award was presented to Tom Nicoll of Den Four. Prizes awarded were various official Boy Scout items.

At the end of the race, Committeeman Roger Metcalfe came forward with a car he made himself and challenged the grand champion, Paul Crowley. Although Mr. Metcalfe's car was dubbed the "Midnight Streaker," it was Cubscout Crowley's vehicle that did the streaking over the finish line. The midnight streaker faded in the distance, and perhaps a more appropriate name would have been the "Midnight Snail." Mr. Metcalfe presented young Paul with a gift certificate from Jack-in-the Box.

Mrs. Louise Fillio, Den Mother of Den Three, saved the day for Cub Dennis Riley who was not able to attend the meeting. Mrs. Fillio, to the delight of all the cubs, entered Dennis' car for him. His car did not do badly at all, and won the first of the two heats in which it raced.

At the close of the meeting, Cubmaster Fillio presented the Attendance Bearskin to Den Four with 250% present.

Cubs of Den Five conducted the closing ceremony. Next month's packmeeting will be on Tuesday, April 8 and the theme will be Cubscout Circus.

The Roundtable this month for all pack leaders in the area will be held on Thursday, March 13 at the Tewksbury Congregational Church.

New books at Wilmington Library

Agenda for Survival (ed.) Harold Helfrich examines the destruction of our natural environment by wasteful and ruinous practices and makes it clear that time has almost run out on us, but that we may still rescue our civilization if we act with speed and courage.

Introducing Furniture Making by John Trussel is written to help people who have acquired a basic knowledge of woodworking techniques and who now want to progress to designing and making their own furniture. It shows how to get beyond preconceived ideas and to find appropriate solutions to individual design problems.

Population Activist's Handbook by the Population Institute is an action-oriented workbook which instructs readers in methods of educating themselves and the community to the vital importance of halting population growth. The book contains invaluable lists and addresses of outstanding health service programs and related matters.

The Joy of Work by John Keefe is a vocational guide to the work world. The author argues that there can and must be joy in working and that this joy should result from a well-reasoned choice. The active choice of a person in selecting a field of work or profession is the main concern of the book.

The Voice for Wildlife by Victor Scheffer contends that the fate of humanity is inseparable from that of the birds and the beasts with whom we share the world. The author presents a commonsense and humane plan for wildlife conservation which concerns us all.

INTRODUCING

Hurlbert Buick-Opel IN LEXINGTON

Paul Hurlbert, owner of Hurlbert Datsun-Peugeot in Reading, is now a full-service Buick-Opel Dealer, also. Mr. Hurlbert has recently purchased "COLONIAL BUICK," a Buick dealership which has been in business in Lexington since 1928. So, in a way, Hurlbert Buick-Opel, the area's newest Buick-Opel dealership, is really one of the area's oldest Buick-Opel dealerships. That means that you, the customer, can now have the best of both worlds.

Paul Hurlbert opened his Datsun dealership in Reading just four years ago. Within 18 months, Hurlbert Datsun was the top selling Datsun dealership in Massachusetts. And last year, Hurlbert Datsun outsold every other Datsun dealer IN ALL NEW ENGLAND.

We're not sure we can make Hurlbert Buick-Opel the top selling Buick-Opel dealer in New England, but we're sure going to try. How? By offering our customers better operating hours, better service, better deals and guaranteed customer satisfaction. Let's face it ... it's a rough, tough economy and we're new at selling Buicks. You just know we'll try harder to please you. (By the way, it'll be a couple of weeks before we get our new signs up. So for now, look for the sign: COLONIAL BUICK when you visit us.)

Town Meeting

the budget would have to be voted before the meeting was over the voters refused to go along with Buczynski.

Another item that had a considerable discussion was sick leave. Selectman Boylen and Attorney Joseph Courtney spoke on this item. Courtney said that sick leave should be considered "in its proper perspective" and that the present arrangement saves the town money.

The proposed town dump was voted down. A $300,000 bond was asked for. A member of the firm of Metcalfe & Eddy took fifteen minutes to show slides and the town meeting was told of the potential fines for Wilmington because of the present dump. Donald White, chairman of the committee, spoke for 23 minutes.

Selectman Miceli said he was against the article. Selectman George Boylen was in favor, and pointed out that Woburn has a dump "across the street," and that a message from the Burlington selectmen alleging that their water supply (which is upstream, ed.) would be endangered was directed to the wrong person. Boylen pointed out that Burlington's selectmen should have sent the message to Wilmington's selectmen.

Boylen told the town meeting that the proposal "would be cheaper."

Selectman Banda was also in favor, arguing that "regionalization," which had been mentioned would produce problems, and that the town should "take care of itself."

The dump proposal lost by a 175

Beyond the power of human understanding

The public address system (loud speakers) of last Saturday's Town Meeting established a new record of some sorts, for destroying human understanding.

The Town Crier has been told that the regular operator was away, that there had been a death in the family for his substitute, and that the young man who acted as operator was really the only choice left.

To be noted was that the four loud speakers directly faced each other, in pairs, in the basketball nets. This quite probably contributed to the confusion.

Town Manager Sterling Morris was the least understood person in that Town Meeting. There were many comments by voters who could not understand what he was saying.

Wilmington's selectmen, on the other hand, learned that the secret was to speak softly - to whisper. Generally they were heard, but this wasn't always the case.

On one occasion a voice from the back of the hall informed Jim to 145 vote.

The next article, Article 8, was passed over. It would have appropriated money for the operation of the dump. John Graney of the dump committee asked if the money, or some of it, could be appropriated for the improvement of the present dump, which is privately owned. The moderator ruled Graney out of order.

Town Manager Sterling Morris, after the meeting, said that Wilmington would have to get a dump, and it could not continue as it is doing today. Morris indicated that he is going to try again for the site that was defeated in Saturday's meeting.

He stopped the debate

Dwight F. Maxwell of 10 Lumac Road, became a hero of sorts, in the annual town meeting, by observing that the voters were discussing the union agreements, for the police department, and that such a discussion should take place at the bargaining table and was no part of the town meeting.

Mr. Maxwell made his observation after one hour and fifteen minutes had been spent discussing police salaries, etc. Three minutes later the vote was completed.

Miceli that "I can't hear you!" "That", said Miceli "was the first time anyone ever said that to me!"
